DRIVE ABOUT PLATTSBURG. THE COLONIZATION SCHEME.

During the Afternoon the Band of the Twenty-First Regiment Rendered a Concert Program Which Was Greatly Enjoyed.

The Originator Says It Is Simply One of the Movements of the Economic and the Political Organization.

Champlain, N. Y., July 31.—The day has been delightful here. About 10 a. m. the president and Mr. Porter took a long walk about the park surrounding the hotel.

About 4:30 the president and Mrs. McKinley, General and Mrs. Alger, and Mr. Porter drove to the United States military post and down the elegant boulevard past the regimental quarters of the Twenty-first infantry. As they passed the guard house a guard of 20 men turned out and saluted the president with the call of the bugle, presenting arms.

The people of Plattsburg knew nothing of the intention of the president to visit the village, and he drove through the streets without demonstration of any kind. Numbers, however, doffed their hats and their salutes were returned generally by the president. The party drove through all the principal streets. Mrs. McKinley felt much revived by the fresh and balmy air.

Shortly after noon the Twenty-first regiment band of 35 pieces came from the post, and taking a position below the western balcony rendered choice selections. The president and Mrs. McKinley enjoyed the music from the veranda.

TOO MUCH BOOZE.

Love of Brink Sends Sockalexis to the Bench.

Cleveland, July 31.—President Robinson of the Cleveland baseball club announced that the non-appearance of the young Indian, Sockalexis, is his use of intoxicating liquor.

Sockalexis has been intoxicated frequently of late and Mr. Robinson has fined him $25, $50 and $100 respectively for three instances of which he has proof. He also suspended the red man until he can produce a certificate from the club's physician that he is not drinking and is in good physical condition.

Pope as a Taxpayer.

Columbus, O., July 31.—Hereafter, in accordance with the decision of the county board of equalization, Pope Leo XIII. of Rome will be a taxpayer of Franklin county. The board decided that taxes must be paid on the printing and manufacturing departments of the Josephinum, which is under the direct supervision of the Roman see. The Lutheran Book Concern held the same ruling. The board held that articles were made and sold for profit.

Will Meet the Manufacturers.

Philadelphia, July 31.—The joint wage committee of the Window Glass Workers' association continued its sessions, but nothing was determined in the direction of the general wage scale. A communication from the National Manufacturers' association was received requesting that the workers' representatives on the question of wages meet the manufacturers' representatives in conference on Aug. 11 in Chicago. This was agreed to.

Consider it a Bogus Note.

Washington, July 31.—The state department has received from the Philadelphia tobacco firm the note found in a bale of tobacco from Cuba stating that three Americans were confined in Moro castle and were unable to communicate with their friends outside. The note will be forwarded to Consul General Lee at Havana, but the officials do not attach much importance to the note from the internal evidence of its bogus character.

Desperado Hanged.

San Antonio, Tex., July 31.—Maximo Martinez was hanged at Floresville, in the Wilson county jail for a triple murder committed on June 6 last. He killed Jules Carbo and wife, an aged couple, and Juanita Acosta, 18, whom he ravished. Martinez died without a struggle and apparently with no fear.

Felt Over a Precipice.

Shoe Dealer Assaues.

Columbus, O., July 31.—Nathan Herzog, high street shoe dealer, assaues.

Chicago, July 31.—The New Time will contain an article by Eugene Debs, in which he says:

"The Social Democracy is a general social, economical and political organization. It is at once national and international. Politically speaking, it is a party within and for itself, and within twelve months its national representatives will have formulated a national political platform.

Similarly, the various state representatives will have adopted state platforms and the municipal representatives local platforms.

"By far the greater part of the criticism has been directed against the colonization scheme, and there are those who still insist that this is all there is in the movement; that that is its chief purpose. This is simply one of the movements, and the department is known as the colonization department."

Not Preferred Creditors.

Baltimore, July 31.—Judge Goff and Moore, in the United States circuit court, handed down an opinion in which it was decided that the Johns Hopkins university and other holders of $3,000,000 of first preferred 6 per cent stock of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad are not preferred creditors, as was contended, and that they are in the same category as the other stockholders. The decision of the court, if it is upheld in the higher tribunals, where it is understood it will ultimately go for decision, will seriously affect the finances of the Johns Hopkins university.

Bills Disapproved.

Harrisburg, July 31.—Governor Hastings disposed of all the expense bills of the various legislative investigating committees. In nearly every case he disapproved the items in favor of members for "sleeping berths, parlor and dining car charges, carriage hire, mileage, telegram and telephone messages, preparing reports, clerk hire and personal expenses." The various bills for the attendance of the legislature at the McKinley inauguration were also disapproved.

New Incorporations.

Columbus, O., July 31.—The Marion Milling and Grain company, Marion, capital stock $23,000, the London Cemetery association, Jackson township, Richmond county, the Auditorium School of Music, Cincinnati, the Foo Foo Social club, Cincinnati, Hanan-Mathewson company, a foreign corporation organized under the laws of West Virginia, with principal office located at Cleveland, capital stock $45,000, the Court Columbia, No. 69, Foresters, Toledo, O.

Dog Stops Dr. Talmage.

Rankin, O. July 31.—At the Miami Chautauqua, while Dr. Talmage was speaking, the second rise in the pavilion at the rear of the speaker gave way and several hundred people were dropped about 10 inches. No one was seriously injured. A dog was pinioned beneath the timbers and the doctor would not proceed until the animal was released.

Sent to Sing Sing.

New York, July 31.—John F. Ryan and Leon Graves, who lured Lawyer Burt S. Clark of Brooklyn to a flat in this city on July 16 and then robbed him and tried to force and down his throat, were sentenced to 18 years' imprisonment at hard labor in Sing Sing. Both pleaded guilty.

Streets Patrolled by Troops.

Madrid, July 31.—The Portuguese Journal, Seculo, says that owing to the disturbed condition of Lisbon and Oporto the troops stationed there have been confined to their barracks. Reinforcements are arriving and the streets are patrolled by the troops.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

May Be Taken Against the Marching Coal Miners.

Pittsburg, July 31.—Legal proceedings are to be taken against the marching coal miners, unless they disband and go to their homes. This was decided on and Sheriff Harvey A. Lowery will be expected to see to it that the assemblies are disbanded.

While the march is on the mines of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company have not been as effective as the miners' officials could wish, it is evident that the marchers are making an impression on the employees of the company.

There was posted in the vicinity of the Turtle creek, Sandy creek and Plum creek mines a proclamation issued by the sheriff, commanding that all persons shall refrain from assembling or congregating on the public highways or thoroughfares of Allegheny county or interfering with the peace. All are commanded to go to their homes or place of residence or be dealt with according to law.

President Patrick Dolan was asked what he thought of the proclamation. He said he did not care how many proclamations were issued, so long as the peace was kept, which, he said, it was intended to do. He expressed himself as having no fear.

A meeting was held, which was addressed by District President Patrick Dolan. He went over about the same ground as was covered in his previous speech, and added that all labor organizations in the country, with the exception of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was with the miners in their strike.

He made an allusion upon this order, saying that owing to the tardiness of electric railways and other means of rapid transit, the wages of the engineers would drop sooner or later, and then they would be asking assistance from other organizations.

In other portions of the district the strike matters are quiet. The strikers are all awaiting with anxious interest the result of the DeArmit mines.

Miners Accept the Advance.

Alliance O. July 31.—The 100 miners employed in the three mines at Bergholz, the southern terminus of the Lake Erie, Alliance and Southern railroad, have returned to work. They went out at the commencement of the strike. The operators offered them 75 cents a ton for mining, an advance of 20 cents over the old rate. They accepted the offer at once.

Miners Are Destitute.

Danville, Ill., July 31.—Miners in the Danville district are in destitute circumstances. Over 400 families are reported without means. Citizens and many of the operators are contributing liberally with provisions and money. There is no evidence that the strikers contemplate giving up.

Contributions Are Slow.

Chicago, July 31.—Provisions for the relief of the striking miners of Illinois are coming in rather slowly. The relief headquarters have been open two days but nothing beyond a few cash contributions from labor unions has been received.

Conference of Christian Workers.

Norfolk, Mass., July 31.—The session of the general conference for Christian Workers was held in the Auditorium. Mr. Sankey led the singing and Rev. F. H. Marling, D. D. of New York, read a scripture lesson and made a few remarks. Mr. Moody introduced the principal speaker, Rev. G. Campbell Morgan of London.

PROFIT OF PRODUCERS.

Wheat Crop Worth $80,000,000 More Than Last Year.

A DECLINE IN SOME PRICES.

Since the Passage of Tariff Bill There Has Been a Marked Increase in Foreign Demands and an Advance in Price.

New York, July 31.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says: Dispatches from almost every northern city of importance report, without exception, improvement in business, and from Detroit to Seattle and Portland splendid crop prospects.

The task of adjusting the business and industries of the country to conditions created by a new law has progressed with gratifying rapidity and ease.

Some confusion is caused by events seemingly contradictory; by closing of large cotton mills when many other works are starting, and by decline in some prices while others are advancing, but the balance is unmistakably on the right side.

The most important event since the passage of the new tariff, which has been generally anticipated a week ago, has been the marked increase in foreign demand and advance in price for wheat, the latter having risen 4 1/2 cents during the week, with western receipts for the first time exceeding last year's and western railroads besieged for cars.

With crop news still favorable producers may probably realize some thing like $80,000,000 more than last year on wheat, which means a great difference in purchases by agricultural states.

Selling of wool at Boston, where the speculation has been most active, is suggestive, amounting to 8,848,000 pounds for the week, and at three chief markets to 11,984,500.

Delay in the iron industry is purely because wages have not been settled at all works, though at many, and partly because steadily rising demand does not yet raise prices.

Failures for the week have been 236 in the United States against 281 last year, and 23 in Canada against 40 last year.

Deadlock Ended.

Budapest, July 31.—The parliamentary deadlock which has existed for a long time past has at last been ended and a compromise has been reached, the government agreeing to a modification of the clause in the criminal procedure bill providing that in the future newspaper libel cases should be tried by a judge without a jury. The opposition considered this an infringement upon the liberty of the press and successfully blocked all legislation until the government yielded.

Fireproof Wood.

Washington, July 31.—The board of construction has reported to the navy department that it does not deem it advisable in the absence of further information to report upon the use of fireproof wood for deck planking, but for bulkheads, furniture, joiner work, etc., it feels justified in recommending that the present process be continued, unless something better be discovered or until it results from investigations now being made become better known.

Wheelman Drowned.

Philadelphia, July 31.—Daniel Mehan, 19, met death in a strange manner while coasting on his bicycle down a steep hill. At the foot of the hill a low stone fence marks the boundary of Wissahickon creek, which, at that spot, is about ten feet deep. He lost control of his wheel, crashed against the wall, plunged headlong over it into the creek and was drowned.

Dr. Astrow Continues.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 31.—The speakers at the Jewish National Chautauqua again devoted themselves to Biblical subjects. Dr. M. J. Astrow of Philadelphia continued his discourse upon "The Analysis of the Books of the Bible." He was followed by Dr. I. Grossman, whose theme was "Jewish Sabbath School Pedagogics," being the second of a series.

Vetoed by Hastings.

Harrisburg, July 31.—Governor Hastings vetoed the mercantile tax bill and the Simon electric light bill. The mercantile tax measure originally provided revenue by imposing a tax of one-half cent a gallon on beer, ale and porter brewed within the state during three years beginning July 1. It was estimated that the bill would raise $600,000 revenue annually.

Accepts Another Place.

Providence, July 31.—Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews, who recently resigned the presidency of Brown university, has accepted the presidency of the new university to be founded by John Brisbane Walker and to be known as the Cosmopolitan university. It is to be modeled after the Chautauqua school and will be conducted by correspondence.

nation of Colonel Grant. The mayor said he had selected the man who is to succeed Colonel Grant, but he would not announce his name at present.

Violence Is Feared.

Atlanta, Ga., July 31.—The Flanagan murder case is now in the hands of the jury. The latter have been out nine hours. In the event there is a mistrial, which would mean delay, the officers fear there will be mob violence.

CATHOLIC BISHOPS

Are Advised About Religious Services of an Extraordinary Character.

New York, July 31.—The Rome correspondent of the New York Freeman's Journal has cabled a letter written by Cardinal Jacobini and addressed to all Catholic bishops throughout the world, proposing one of the most widespread series of religious events probably ever held.

These extraordinary religious services it is intended shall commemorate the close of the nineteenth and the beginning of the twentieth century. The project put forth by Cardinal Jacobini is the result of the desire to respond to the wish of Pope Leo XIII. to consecrate the transition from one century to the other by "an extraordinary invocation of the divine assistance of Jesus Christ as a happy prestige of peace and concord."

The letter shows that the idea has the "full approbation of his holiness and Catholic delegates assembled in congress at Rome to promote its realization." The communication prays the co-operation of various diocesan heads in the direction of the creation of the national committees to act with the main body.

Secretary Sherman Improving.

Washington, July 31.—Word comes to Washington from Secretary Sherman at Amagansett, L. I., that his health has improved very much since he arrived at that place. He is about to leave for Boston in a day or two and this trip will be followed by a sea voyage.

English Player Defeated.

Boston, July 31.—In the semi-final round of the Longwood tennis tournament William A. Larned of Summit N. J. defeated H. A. Nesbit of England in three straight sets, proving himself easily the superior of the foreigner in all points of the game.

Lynchings May Result.

Kittrell, N. C., July 31.—Miss Nanette Callett, a respectable young white lady near here, was brutally assaulted by a young negro. Her assailant was captured, tried and committed to jail. The people are very much excited and lynchings may follow.

Sarsaparilla Sense.

Any sarsaparilla is sarsaparilla. True. So any tea is tea. So any flour is flour. But grades differ. You want the best. It's so with sarsaparilla. There are grades. You want the best. If you understood sarsaparilla as well as you do tea and flour it would be easy to determine. But you don't. How should you? When you are going to buy a commodity whose value you don't know, you pick out an old established house to trade with, and trust their experience and reputation. Do so when buying sarsaparilla.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been on the market 50 years. Your grandfather used Ayer's. It is a reputable medicine. There are many Sarsaparillas—but only one Ayer's. It cures.

DIABOLICAL PLOT.

Train on Big Four Wrecked and Four Men Killed.
Thursday, July 31.—The Chicago express on the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railway line in Cincinnati at 7 a. m. was wrecked here about 2:30. Four were killed outright and several slightly injured. There was a diabolical plot to crash the train as a coup d'état. It had been driven into the switch so as to block it open and throw the fast train from Chicago to Cincinnati off the track as it passed this point.

The engine and tender, the mail express and baggage cars were thrown from the track and wrecked. The coaches and Wagner sleeping cars rumbled on the track and none of the passengers were seriously hurt although they had a lively shaking up. It is reported that none of those in the cars thrown from the track were seriously hurt.

Seth Winslow of Greensburg, Ind., the engineer, and B. Crickmore of Indianapolis, the fireman, and two unidentified tramps were killed outright. While there are many reports about the number of people injured, there many were so badly frightened at first as to give credence to the reports about many being injured.

THE DAM BROKE.

Middletown, Conn., July 31.—At 8 o'clock a dam 40 feet wide, confining water from which three factories get power, burst, letting down a tremendous volume of water. The huge stones of which the dam was built crashed into the factory of William Wilcox's dock and the lower floors of the factory were flooded. Forty workmen were compelled to flee for their lives.

GRAIN EXPORT RECORD BROKEN.

Philadelphia, July 31.—The Record has the following: "Forty steamers were chartered to load cargoes of grain at Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and Newport News for ports in the United Kingdom and Europe, making a day's record which, it is claimed, has never been equalled. To fill these vessels will require over 4,000,000 bushels of grain."

MURDERED ON A TRAIN.

Washington, Ind., July 31.—Harry Lister, son of the purchasing agent for the Monon, was murdered near here. He was pushed from the train. It is alleged by John Williams of Trenton, Mo. Lister's home was at Bedford. Williams is in jail. An engineer named George Welsh claims to have seen the murder.

TRIBESMEN REPELLED.

Simla, July 31.—A dispatch from Malakand reports another night attack by the tribesmen. The natives fought desperately for several hours, but were repulsed at all points. Bonfires had been lighted around the camp and in the glare the tribesmen were easy targets for the British riflemen.

DRIVEN TO CRIME THROUGH HUNGER.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 31.—Marshall H. J. Walker of Durand shot and fatally wounded James Crone, who, with a companion, was burglarizing a store. Crone said he was a striking miner from Scranton, Pa., driven to the commission of the crime through hunger.

MILLS WILL RESUME.

Warren, O., July 31.—The Ohio Tube works, which shut down early in July on account of the scarcity of coal, will resume work Monday. It is believed the Warren rolling mill will resume work also.

THE QUEEN'S PLAISANCE.

Greenwich House, the favorite residence of the Great Elizabeth.
John Bennett's serial in St. Nicholas, "Master Skylark," is a story of the time of Shakespeare and contains many quaint pictures of old English life. The hero and his fellow scholars of St. Paul's are commanded to sing before the queen, and there is the following account of their reception:

A smacking dinner was waiting them of whitebait with red pepper and a yellow juice so sour that Nick's mouth drew up in a knot, but it was very good. There were besides silver dishes full of sugared red currants and heaps of comfits and sweetmeats, which Master Gyles would not allow them even to touch, and saffron cakes with raisins in them and spiced hot cordial out of tiny silver cups. Bare-headed pages clad in silk and silver lace waited upon them as if they were fiedgeling kings, but the boys were too hungry to care for that or to try to put on airs and waded into the meat and drink as if they had been starved for a fortnight.

But when they were done Nick saw that the table off which they had eaten was inlaid with pearl and silver filigree and that the tablecloth was of silk, with woven metal work and gems set in it worth more than 1,000 crowns. He was very glad he had eaten first, for such wonderful service would have taken away his appetite.

And truly a wonderful palace was the Queen's Plaisance, as Greenwich House was called. Elizabeth was born in it, and so loved it most of all. There she pleased oftenest to receive and grant audiences to envoys from foreign courts, and there, on that account, as was always her proud, jealous way, she made a blinding show of glory and of wealth, of science, art and power that England, to the eyes which saw her there, might stand in second place to no dominion in the world, however rich or great.

It was a very house of gold.

Over the door where the lads marched in was the queen's device, a golden rose, with a motto set below in letters of gold, "Dieu et mon droit," and upon the walls were blazoned coats of noble arms on branching golden trees, of pure gold and finest silk, costly beyond compare. The royal presence chamber shone with tapestries of gold, of silver and of oriental silks of as many shifting colors as the birds of paradise and wrought in exquisite design. The throne was set with diamonds, with rubies, garnets and sapphires, glittering like a pastry crust of stars and garnished with gold lace work, pearls and ornament, and under the velvet canopy which hung above the throne was embroidered in seed pearls, "Vivat Regina Elizabetha!" There was no door without a gorgeous usher there, no room without a page, no corridor without a guard, no post without a man of noble birth to fill it.

On the walls of the great gallery were masterly paintings of great folk, globes showing all the stars fast in the sky and drawings of the world and all its parts, so real that one could see the savages in the new world hanging to the underside by their feet, like flies upon the ceiling. How they stuck was more than Nick could make out, and where they landed it they chanced to slip and fall troubled him a deal, until in the sheer multiplication of wonders he could not wonder any more.

THE VOICES OF BULLETS.

From 11:30 onward for two hours the Turks and their very best. Their fire was incessant, like the "independent firing" which is so comforting a business just before the enjoyable charge on a big Aldershot field day. We kept a constant watch and fired when possible, but as we were against the skyline the enemy had a much better sight of us than we had of them. However, from behind our little wall we could laugh and say, "Kale ord!" ("Good morning to you"), as the bullets howled past.

By the way, the voice of a bullet varies. There is the thin high whistle, to which no one pays any attention after the first half hour. There is the prolonged moan, "the cry of a lost spirit," as a novelist might say. There is the wolfish howl, which for some reason always seems to be taking one on the flank instead of fairly in front, and last of all there is the low, ill tempered buzz, as though the nasty thing had got out of bed the wrong side, as children say. It is far the most terrifying, especially if it suddenly stops as the bullet strikes something close at hand. It was to these bullets only that we politely wished "Good morning."—London Chronicle.

THE WRONG TRAIN.

First Train Robber (out west)—Hello, Bill! How'd yer git along wid that job today?

Second Train Robber (sadly)—Didn't git along no way. Got the wrong train.

"Eh? Didn't yer git the express?"

"Now. We made a mistake an struck an excursion of real estate agents, an they took every cent we had."—Yellow Kid Magazine.

DANGERS OF BUFFALO HUNTING.

A son of an Iroquois half breed went out one day with other Indians to run buffaloes along the Red river, but he never returned. They found his horse and his gun and knife, but could not find the man.

About a year later, as the Indians were hunting in another part of the country, a buffalo cow was seen which had something peculiar on her head. They chased and killed her and found that her singular head ornament was the pelvis of a man, one of her horns having pierced the thin part of the bone, which was wedged on so tightly that they could scarcely get it off.

Much of the hair on the head, neck and shoulders of the cow was worn off short, and on the side on which the bone was the hair looked new, as if it had been worn off the skin and was beginning to grow out again.

It is supposed that this bone was part of the missing half breed, who had been hooked by the cow and carried about on her head until his body fell to pieces.—Exchange.

Valley of the Euphrates.

John Punnett Peters, in his book, "Nippur, or Explorations on the Euphrates," thus describes the valley of the Euphrates:

"Below Hit, in the alluvial delta of the two rivers Tigris and Euphrates, existed one of the primeval seats of civilization—one of Dame Nature's kindergarten, to teach her children the rudiments of higher life. Out of this valley westward toward the fertile uplands of northern Syria, downward to the rich coast land of the Mediterranean, onward to Cyprus and the isles, southward to the rival valley of the Nile, the road of commerce and conquest had been the Euphrates, and for a large part of the way the Euphrates is no more than a road—a narrow pathway, sunk 100 or 200 feet beneath the plateau of a sterile wilderness swarming with wild Arabs. In the earliest ages this was the road that led the conquerors out and over which conquest and civilization traveled hand in hand. Later it became the road by which conquerors entered into the very heart of Babylonia. So it was that Babylonian and Egyptian, Syrian and Assyrian, Persian and Greek, Parthian and Roman, Sassanian and Byzantine, Moslem and Christian, surged back and forth along the highway between the eastern and the western worlds, battling for possession."

SUICIDE.

Wife of C. H. & D. Engineer McCutcheon Ends Her Life.

Took Morphine and Was Found Dead by Her Husband—Insanity Presumed to Have Been the Cause.

Mrs. Clara McCutcheon, who lived with her husband, John McCutcheon, an engineer on the C. H. & D. Railroad, at 808 west Eighth street, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, committed suicide early yesterday morning at her home, by taking morphine. Mrs. McCutcheon had been in poor health for a number of years, and at times showed symptoms of insanity. When her husband left her on Wednesday morning she was in apparent good spirits, and gave no intimation to him of the rash act which she then, no doubt, contemplated. Mr. McCutcheon was away on the road until yesterday morning. About 7 o'clock he arrived home, and on going to his wife's apartment was horrified to find her lying across the bed dead.

Mrs. McCutcheon had been suffering greatly of late from insomnia, and in order to induce sleep she began taking morphine. The deceased was 36 years of age, and formerly resided at Dayton, Ohio, to which place the body will be shipped for interment. Coroner Haerr was notified and will hold an inquest.

THE ILLUMINATED PARADE.

As soon as darkness began to gather over the city, colored lights began to appear along Spring street. Soon the scene was a magnificent one, and thousands of people who crowded and jostled good-naturedly along the thoroughfare were more than pleased with the scene. At Jameson avenue the illuminated bicycle and vehicle parade was formed and started under command of Capt. C. O. Cowles at 8 p. m. There were hundreds of handsomely decorated and illuminated bicycles in line and were followed by a column of carriages that seemed to reach the entire length of the street. Upon the transparencies in the parade were painted the following:

"Other counties have good roads: why not Allen?"

"We only have one street; that's Spring street."

"Join the Good Roads Association and work for good roads."

"Your decorations are fine."

"If you want to scorch, join the L. C. O. and ride the track."

"Join the L. A. W. and the L. C. C."

The most attractive feature of the parade was the illuminations carried by Tom Cahill and Jack Walsh, of the C. H. & D. shops. THE FIREWORKS.

The carnival was fittingly terminated in a grand display of fireworks which were fired for an hour from a platform near Jameson avenue and Spring street, while the Opera House Band discoursed sweet music. At 10 o'clock all was over and a few succeeded in finding a street car while the others walked home, tired and worn out but well pleased with the grandest carnival ever held in the city. Congratulations to the people of Spring street, the city of hotels, Lima Cycling Club, and Good Roads Association.

TWO DEMURRERS.

The Columbia Construction Company Wish to be a Defendant.

In the Injunction Suit Against the Mayor—City Solicitor Adgate Files a Petition.

Thursday afternoon J. W. Van Dyke filed a petition in the common pleas court and received a temporary injunction restraining mayor Baxter from signing the paving contract for west Market street. Yesterday afternoon this action was followed up by the Columbia Construction Co., through their attorneys, Motter & Mackenzie, filing a motion to permit them to be a party defendant in the suit.

The Columbia Construction Co. yesterday afternoon also filed a demurrer to the injunction prayed for by the Barber people, for the reason that that petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

City solicitor Adgate has also filed a demurrer to the mandamus proceedings brought by the Barber people against the city. Two causes of action are stated—first, that the court has no jurisdiction of the subject of the action, and secondly that the petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

Demurrers will be argued and disposed of at the earliest opportunity. Should they be sustained the matter as far as the mandamus proceedings are concerned will be terminated.

STRUCK BY A HORSE.

A Son of Rev. Morse Injured Yesterday Afternoon.

During the merchants' parade on Spring street yesterday afternoon, a horse that George Newson was riding became frightened at the steam roller and plunged into a crowd of people. One of its hoofs struck the left leg of James, the little son of Rev. George Byron Morse, badly bruising the member. Medical attendance was furnished immediately and it was found that the child's injuries were not serious, though it was reported along the street that he had been killed. The horse also stepped on a lady's foot, but fortunately no bones were broken.

street, and Gordon was taken to his home at the street and number mentioned above. Dr. Rudy was summoned to James' room and Dr. Huntley was called to attend to Gordon's injury. Both men refused to have either administered, but bore the pain while their wounds were being sewed up, without flinching. The gash that Gordon sustained was over twelve inches long, extending from beneath the left arm down and back. Probably the knife was plunged into his back and drawn forward and upwards, penetrating to the ribs almost the entire length. It required about thirty stitches to draw the parted flesh together and while the wound is a serious one, the victim's condition is not considered dangerous.

The wound sustained by James, under the left shoulder, was the deeper of the two but the gash was not so long. Dr. Rudy took fifteen stitches in the wound, and the injured man is resting quietly under the care and nursing of brakeman Harry Wheeler.

THE TRAMP ESCAPES.

The police scoured the city all night long in an unsuccessful attempt to capture the murderous tramp, but neither he or the boy he was abusing could be found. Gordon described the man as a thick set individual with black hair, about two weeks' growth of beard and wearing a suit of clothes that were too large for him. Several strangers were arrested but none of them answered the description given.

Finally Henry Beel and his bloodhounds were called into service and the dogs struck a trail which led to the yards near the C. H. & D. freight house. A tramp was found in a car at that point, but he was not the man wanted.

This morning operator Jenkins, who has charge of the tower in the north C. H. & D. yards at night, informed the police that a man who answered the description of the tramp wanted soaked up to the tower about 10 o'clock last night and asked for a drink. He informed the operator that he wanted to go to Toledo and asked how soon a freight train would go north. The operator told him it would be some time, whereupon he stated that he was in a hurry and would walk to the next town.

Some time ago the one-year-old child of Mr. M. E. Lindley, of Franklin Forks, Pa., had a very severe attack of colic. She suffered great pain. Mr. Lindley gave her a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and in ten minutes her distress was gone. This is the best medicine in the world for children when troubled with colic or diarrhoea. It never fails to effect a prompt cure. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant for them to take. It should be kept in every home, especially during the summer months. RECEIVERS' CERTIFICATE

Asked for to Pay Ohio Southern Accrued Taxes.

The Petition of Second Mortgage Bond Holders Taken Under Adjudication—No Time Set for Hearing.

Judge Richie to-day heard the arguments of the attorneys for the second mortgage bondholders for leave to file an answer to the Central Trust Co., the first mortgage bond holders, to have a decree of sale entered. Judge Doyle and C. N. Haskell were present and spoke for the Central Trust Company. Chas. Adgate represented O. E. Brodhead and Thomas Powell represented Mr. Johnson, second mortgage bondholder. They objected to a decree of sale being entered. Mr. Bowman, of Springfield, was present in the interest of Clark county and endeavored to have the court order the receiver to issue receiver's certificates to pay the taxes that have accrued since the appointment of the receiver.

Attorneys representing the other counties through which the railroad passes were also present, interested in the same question. They asked the court to fix a time for hearing. The court informed the parties that a time for the hearing could not be fixed at present, but would be fixed at a later date.

The petition of the attorney for the second mortgage bondholders was taken under advisement and the matter will be determined at a later date.

The Deception of Distance.

"It's very deceptive to judge of the size or capacity of an object which is 50 feet or more in the air," said an architect to the writer as we were passing the royal courts of justice a few days ago.

"Now, look at that clock," pointing to the law courts clock, which hangs about 70 feet above the pavement. "It looks very small, doesn't it? Hardly big enough to hold a man. Yet a party of us breakfasted in the case before the works were put in." Everybody knows how deceptive is the appearance of the Westminster clock. Looking at the dial from the embankment or from Great George street, it seems as if a man of medium size could easily stretch across the dial with both arms. Yet it would take four pairs of outstretched arms to cross it. The minute hand, which looks like an ordinary walking stick, is longer than the two tallest soldiers in the life guards. The figures on the dial are bigger than a 3-year-old child, and the second dots are as big as a dinner plate.

Equally deceptive are the funnels of the Atlantic steamers. The funnels of the Umbria and Etruria are 13 feet in diameter, while the funnels of the greyhounds of the Cunard line, the Lucania and Campania, are 21 feet across. Each funnel from the top to its junction with the furnace is 130 feet in length. Bets are frequently made by passengers as to the diameter of these ocean chimneys, and many a laugh has been raised when a passenger has estimated their diameter at the seemingly extravagant figure of 10 feet.—London Standard.

Something Nice.

According to the following anecdote, from The Sacred Heart Review, people who do right as well as those who do wrong seem times resolve never to do it again:

A gentleman heard that a young girl whose mother was in poor circumstances was convalescing from a dangerous sickness. Forthwith he went to a fruiterer and secured some choice bunches of Hamburg grapes at $1 or thereabout a pound.

He carried them, not without some self satisfaction, to the house of the invalid and left them with her mother, who received them in a dubious kind of manner that did not evince, as he thought, much gratitude.

This did not trouble him greatly, however, but the next day when he reached he received a blow which almost made him resolve never again to be generous to strangers.

"How did your daughter like the grapes?" he said to the grandmother and demonstrative mother.

"Oh, pretty well," was the reluctant answer.

"Did she eat them all?" was the next query.

"Yes, she got away with them," was the reply. "But she is a good deal like me. She likes something nice and tasty—like canned corn."

In Drowsy Debate.

"A man has to keep his eyes open to be a politician nowadays," remarked one statesman.

"Possibly that is correct as a general principle," replied the other, "but if you had looked around at your colleagues while you were making that last speech of yours you would have had your doubts."—Washington Star.

STAG HUNTING IN ENGLAND.

James I. Introduced French Customs of the Chase.

In The Century W. A. Rader-Graham has an article on "Sports In The Seventeenth Century." He says:

With the beginning of the seventeenth century, stag hunting in the French fashion suddenly became popular at the court of James I. Physically unfit as that monarch was for feats of endurance or for hard riding, this sport appealed to the love of pomp and to the vanity of a sovereign who was fully persuaded of a king's divine rights, among which was not least the royal prerogative of hunting where he liked in the forests of his subjects. James constituted himself a patron of venery, and one of his first acts after his accession to the throne was to beg his ally, Henry IV of France, to send him the most skillful of his huntsmen in order that "he might henceforth hunt in the forests of his realm rather than in inclosures and parks, such as was hitherto the fashion, where one hunted the stag only as long as he was in sight."

The Marquis de Vitry, one of the French king's most renowned veneurs, was immediately dispatched to England, and soon afterward De Beaumont and De Moustier, two of Henry's officers of the hunt, with several valets de chiens, or kennel men, and presently also the Sieur de St. Ravy, followed the marquis across the channel. St. Ravy became permanently attached to the English court in the character of grand veneur, or master of the hunt, to James Danish queen. Other sportsmen of renown followed suit.

Thus Ligniville, the author of a well known work on venery, was sent from Lorraine to the English court to co-operate with the others in the introduction of the French chase a course on English soil, and there is no doubt that in consequence of the pronounced favor shown by James for French hunting institutions a considerable number of French nobles came over to England to sun themselves in the favor of the vain monarch. To such extremes did James drive his predilection that he imported red deer from France and we are told that St. Ravy annually visited France for this purpose, collecting on a single occasion as many as 40 and 50 in the forests of Fontainebleau. These stags, according to Maricourt, only the king hunted.

The sport does not seem to have long retained its French features in their entirety, for Ligniville already complains that the English were introducing the custom of killing the stag with an arquebus when the bounds had at last succeeded in bringing him to bay, while the French continued much longer to consider it a point of honor to dispatch the stag with the hanger, a proceeding to which, of course, considerable danger to the unskillful or careless was attached.

Wild Flowers of the California Alps. There are a number of roadside and pasture plants known by farmers as "weeds" which nevertheless seem to have imbibed the very spirit of midsummer. Among them are included the dainty evening primrose (Euthraea biennis), the clematis, or virgin's bower, festooning itself gracefully from tree to tree with the wild grapes and ivy; the milkweed (asclepias), with its dull pink flowers and big oval seed pods filled with brown seeds and silky white down; the yellow sun flower, the flame-colored castellan, or Indian's paint brush; the gold enrod, three to six feet in height; the aster dandehon and the bright eyed little hypericum or St. John's wort, formerly used in certain parts of Europe as a charm against evil spirits. In sandy places on the edge of the woods grows the curious horsetail or telescope reed sometimes known as file grass, as the rough furrowed stalks were once used for polishing purposes. Being without true or visible blossoms this plant belongs with the ferns, mosses and other cryptogams and is said to have deteriorated from the coal ages.—Popular Science Monthly.

THEY COINED WORDS.

A Young Lady's Interesting Stream of Imagination and Wit.

"Good morning," she said. "You look quite graceful."

"Gracious," she replied. "What kind of a look is that?—Is it—is it anything alarming?"

"On no, only," she replied. "I know what gracious means; I manufactured it ages ago out of gurg, a gurgler—something like and gurgly, you know. That reminds me, I had the most interesting dream the other night. I dreamed I kept a word store."

"A word store?"

"Yes, we coined words and sold them to the inventors of foods and of typewriters, and—"

"How were they sold, by the yard or by the dozen?" he interrupted.

"Neither way. We sold each word according to the amount of brains expended in inventing it, except the words pertaining to bicycles—they came high, because they were so fashionable. Oh, it was quite a large store, all divided up into departments. There was the bicycle department, the cigar department, the electrical department, the patent medicine department—in fact, all lines were represented in which inventions might be made needing names. You see, we sold a name for so much, and then if the invention proved successful we shared in the profits."

"Well," said the man, "I hope you showed more taste in the matter than the person who invented such words as 'copograph,' 'mimeograph,' 'comptometer' and 'operaphone'—they give one literary indigestion."

"Oh, yes," she replied, "our coinage was of a much higher order. Of course we had words ending in graph and phone and cycle, but they were exceedingly cheap, and inventors were rather ashamed to be seen buying them. Words like 'pegamoid' came high. I wish I could remember all the lovely names we coined," she went on. "The only one I can think of is 'hamwich,' a substitute for ham sandwich. Don't you think that's a choice? I dreamed that we sold it to a restaurant man and he made a mint of money out of it."—Chicago Tribune.

WARFARE OF CLASSES.

Modern Football Mere Play to Yale's Old Freshman-Sophomore Struggle.

The organization and development of intercollegiate athletics now absorb much of the energy that used to be given to the furious intercollegiate warfare of classes. From time immemorial there were mighty games of football on the New Haven green, in which whole classes engaged. The freshmen posted their formal challenge on the bulletin of lycium, and the supercilious acceptance of the sophomores named the day for the struggle. "Come," cried the class of '80,

And like sacrifices in their trim
To the fire-eyed maid of smoky war,
All hot and bleeding will we offer you.
And the Tyrteneus of '88 chanted his notes with the noble lines:

Let them come on, the freshmen crew!
Each shot stained shirt—alack!

What gain they have a splinter skull,
A sod for their base back!

On the bloody day appointed both sides massed in heavy column with Napoleonic tactics, while the New Haven fathers surrounded the field. When the round leather ball was kicked, 200 men clashed together in frantic, shouting, dusty, roaring chaos, the one side striving to kick the ball to the Chapel street fence, the other to force it to the steps of the statehouse. Swift runners hung upon the outskirts to seize the ball chances directed to their feet, and hurry it amid full gazing applause to the goal. But it was in the middle press where deeds were uncounted, where shirts became streamers and rib squeezed rib until they cracked, that the heroes of war and the college bully were to be found. From this Titanic struggle the degenerates of today have evolved the emasculated game which they call football, a wretched sort of parlor pastime!—Judge Henry E. Howland in Scribner's.

Turkish Traffic in Slaves.

Slave dealing in Constantinople, as we know, always exists, and the wife of a pasha is not above the wretched business. Richard Davey, in his book, "The Sultan and His Subjects," says:

"A good deal of Turkish traffic in slaves is conducted in the following manner on very well conceived commercial principles: The wife of a pasha, as a matter of speculation, purchases two or three little girls for a trifle, either from a slave dealer or some poor woman, generally a Christian, possibly a Bulgarian refugee who is unable to bring up her own children. The lady educates each child, teaches it those accomplishments which are indispensable to barem life, such as singing, dancing and playing on musical instruments, washing, starching, ironing, embroidery and even a little cookery. To this may be added a smattering of some foreign language and a very elementary knowledge of Turkish calligraphy. When the child is grown up, if she is handsome and liberally repays herself for her trouble by selling her at a high figure to some pasha of her acquaintance through the medium of one of the well known old women whose business it is to carry out transactions of that sort."

No inventor.

"They do say that every American is a born inventor," said the patriotic gentleman.

"My husband," said the fat lady, "is an exception. He uses the same old excuses for being out late that I used to hear my father use."—Indianapolis Journal.

THE DAYS OF OLD.

Ah, speak not of the present time,
No matter what its joys may be,
No matter how the future smiles make
A rainbow of its life to be.

A rainbow of its life to be,
With sweet and shining memories old,
Because I can't but weeping muse
Upon the days of old.

And she, the beautiful of spirit,
Who leaped her brow upon my breast,
And, blushing, whispered, "Only thine!"
Ah, she—that golden hour is over.

When first young love its rapture told,
I can, I can but weeping muse
Upon the days of old.

Then speak not of this present time,
No matter what its joys may be,
No matter how the future smiles make
A rainbow of its life to be.

For I have lost the friends of youth—
Ah, all are in the burial mound.
Ah, what else can I do but muse
Upon the days of old!

THE CENTURY GENERAL HORACE PORTER.

In the "Campaigning With Grant," dwells upon Grant's aversion to liars. He quotes the following remarks from General Rawlins:

"The general always likes to tell an anecdote that points a moral on the subject of lying. He hates only two kinds of people—liars and cowards. He has no patience with them and never fails to show his aversion for them." Ingalls added: "Such traits are so foreign to his own nature that it is not surprising that he should not tolerate them in others. As man and boy he has always been the most absolutely truthful person in the whole range of my acquaintance. I never knew him to run into the slightest exaggeration or to borrow in the least degree from his imagination in relating an occurrence."

One of the party remarked, "I was amused one day to hear an officer say that the general was 'tediously truthful.' He explained that what he meant by that was something that had taken place, would direct his mind so earnestly to stating unimportant details with entire accuracy that he would mar the interest of the story. For instance, after returning from a walk around camp he would say, 'I was told so and so about the wounded by Dr. — while we were talking this morning inside of his tent,' and a half hour afterward he would take the trouble to come back and say, as if it were a matter of the greatest importance: 'I was mistaken when I told you that my conversation with Dr. — occurred inside his tent. That was not correct. It took place while we were standing in front of his tent.' There was much truth in this comment. No one who had served any time with the general could fail to be struck with his excellent memory and the pains he invariably took to state occurrences with positive accuracy, even in the most unimportant particulars."

Valorous.

An old time rodeo mayor of London, whose sporting experience was limited, rode forth one day to join the city hunt in the fields about Marylebone. Placed by his escort under a tree, his lordship heard the hounds give tongue in the distance, and the sounds grew louder and louder, till one of the city scouts shouted out, "The hounds come this way, my lord." The lord mayor rose to the occasion, and, drawing his sword, he exclaimed heroically: "Let him come! I thank my God I fear him not!"—Household Words.

The Busiest Consul.

The busiest consul in the world is the British consul at New York. The British shipping at New York aggregates about 4,000,000 tons annually, and from 25,000 to 30,000 seamen are paid off and shipped each year, involving the handling of about 250,000 for seamen's wages.

Dr. Schleich, a chemical expert, says that 10 per cent of the beer brewed in America will not come up to the test prescribed by the German government, which is not a severe one, only insisting that pure beer shall be brewed and fixing severe penalties for the production of any other kind.

St. Paul, which was founded by French Canadians in 1642, is still under their sway to a large extent. That the city is in great measure Canadian may be inferred from the fact that it has avenues named Winnipeg, Montreal, Manitoba and Toronto in one of the suburbs inside the city limits.

The annual crop of mushrooms in France is valued at over $2,000,000. The wholesale price to dealers is from $22 to $25 per 100 kilograms (220.16 pounds). In Paris alone there are 60 wholesale firms dealing exclusively in mushrooms.

The game of golf on Sundays in the courses round London has now become so common as to create no surprise.

Interse Agony.

A MACHINIST'S PAINFUL SUFFERING.

W. C. Lanier, of Middletown, a Machinist for the McSherry Manufacturing Company, had a Dangerous and Painful Experience—Thought there was no Help for Him, but Relief Finally Came.

From the Journal, Middletown, Ohio.

W. C. Lanier, of Middletown, Ohio, a machinist, working for the McSherry Manufacturing Company, was for many years a sufferer from acute muscular rheumatism, and was at times utterly unable to move without great pain.

He was seen at work a few days ago by a gentleman who had known him when he was a sufferer from rheumatism and who knew of the unsuccessful attempts made by physicians to cure him. Being surprised at the healthy appearance of Mr. Lanier he asked the question, "How did you accomplish it, and who was the doctor?"

The machinist replied, "I was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and then he told the following interesting story regarding his experience:

"I have been a sufferer from acute muscular rheumatism for many years, being at times scarcely able to move around and wholly incapable of performing any labor. After having taken many different kinds of medicine and paid several large doctors' bills, I gave up in despair, as I had been told by the attending physicians that I was incurable. One day, however, I picked up a newspaper and noticed an article about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Having never heard of them before, and believing that I had taken everything else in the market that was said to be a cure for rheumatism, I resolved to give them a trial. This I did, and I can safely say that they are the most wonderful product of medical science that I have ever seen."

At the time I was suffering from rheumatism, I was unable to walk without each step being accompanied by a twinge of pain. Before I had taken all of the first box I began to notice a decided change for the better, and I purchased six more boxes. Three boxes were sufficient to put me on my feet, and now at the age of forty-one I am as well and free from pain as I ever was.

"My wife about this time was taken with an attack of rheumatism resembling very closely that from which I had been recently cured."

"Profiting by my former experience she began to take the remainder of the pills which I had bought. As in my case she almost immediately noticed improvement and now, after having taken eight boxes she is like an entirely different person, and able to attend to her household duties with no difficulty."

"I am well acquainted in this city and have told many persons of my marvelous cure and the great benefit derived from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Should anyone call at my home on Garfield Avenue, I will cheerfully go into the details for them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. The pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 60 cents a box, six boxes for $3.00 (three boxes sent in advance by the 100% satisfaction guarantee). CURED

I have been troubled with rheumatism for over ten years, have used other remedies and have been treated by physicians, but nothing had given me very much relief. I have used three boxes of your Serravallo's Kidney Pills, and am now free from rheumatism, and have not been troubled with it for two months. I told your agent here, Mr. Higgins, of the Arcade Drug Store, that I would be pleased to inform any one what Hobbs' Serravallo's Kidney Pills have done for me.

1400 MILLION

The Estimated Population of the Earth.

One billion, four hundred million of human beings are living or trying to live to-day in the world. A little more than one-half of these are women. We have about 800,000,000 female frailties on this planet. Of these nearly 500,000,000 are semi-civilized, about whom little or nothing is known. Of the remaining 300,000,000 at least one-half are suffering more or less with some chronic ailment peculiar to their sex. One hundred and fifty million sick women! What an appalling statement. Seven million of these sick women live in the United States of America. If this vast multitude of frail sufferers knew of the value of Peruna in ailments of this kind, no medicine manufacturer on earth could make Peruna fast enough to supply the demand for it. It is undoubtedly the greatest remedy yet devised for nervousness, irregular circulation, weakness, palpitation, hysteria, neuralgia, sleeplessness, bloodlessness, catarrhal congestion, loss of appetite, indigestion and general debility.

The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio, are sending for a short time Dr. Hartman's latest work, written especially for women, free of charge. This book will be sent to women only.

We regret that our Dr. Miller will not be able to make his points during the near future. Those under his treatment, as well as those who had intended to visit him, will receive continued treatment and prompt attention by addressing the Surgical Hotel.

His Uncle's Longest Day.

There was in those days a serious mannered Irish member named Blake (not to be confounded with the ex-premier of Canada, sitting member for South Longford), who is remembered for a brief correspondence he read to the delighted house. It was introduced in a speech delivered in debate on the Irish Sunday closing bill. Mr. Blake had, he confidentially informed the house, an uncle who regularly took six tumbblers of whiskey daily. This troubled him, and after much thought he resolved to write and remonstrate with his relative. The following was the letter:

My Dear Uncle—I write to say how pleased I should be if you could see your way to giving your usual glass of whiskey a day. I am sure you would find many advantages in doing so, the greatest of which would be that, as I am persuaded, it would be the means of lengthening your days.

The uncle replied: My DEAR Nephew, I am much obliged to you for your kind letter. I was so much struck by what you said, and in particular by your kind wish to lengthen my days, that last Friday I gave up the whiskey. I believe you are right, my boy, as to my days being lengthened, for, indeed, it was the longest day I ever remember!

Our little boy cut his teeth so hard that he almost had spasms. Bathing his gums with the Lotion would relieve him immediately. He knew the bottle better than all others and would cry for it. I advise every mother who has teething children to use Dr. Hand's Teething Lotion." At all druggists, 25c.

would be. A deal of meanness we miss neighbors, in being poor and lowly, for what is richer but submit that the moth and rust doth corrupt and thieves break through to steal as the good look says!

"Old Noddy didn't intend thieves to break through at any rate," said Nicodemus. "I've heard it said that you have Ashford had more bolts and bars about it than all the rest of the houses in the parish put together. He used to go round it every night as soon as it got dark and fasten everything with his own hands. When that was done, he used to lock himself into the little parlor."

"Aye," said Matthew, interrupting Nicodemus, with an evident desire to roll some tidbit of the story off his own tongue. "Aye, and for what? For the carnal delight of counting his gold? Used to pile up the golden sovereigns in fives and tens and twenties and fifties and hundreds! And they did say that the well, the old gentleman—used to come to him and tell him how to get more gold."

"I know one thing," said Benjamin Tripp, after the silence which followed Matthew's terrible suggestion, "that there's a room in the house, if you go up there on a windy night and listen at the window, you can hear old Noddy counting his gold—clink, clink, clink, it goes." "Aye," said Nicodemus, "I've heard say so, neighbor. There's curious things, of course, in life and death, though I don't hold with ghosts in general. However, I was about to tell our young friend here that old Noddy got very uneasy about his money and cast about for a safe keeping place for it. He wouldn't have aught to do with banks, because Timothy Green had put his savings in one that broke, and these safes that rich folk use nowadays to keep their money in were not in such general use then. They say that he used to hide heaps of money about the house in holes and corners and under the floors, but at last he hit on a curious hiding place for it, as is now well known to all people that hereabout do dwell."

"To be an example unto all," said Matthew, "that they might profit thereby and guard themselves against greed and covitry and the love of money, which is the root of all evil, as the good book truly says."

"You see," continued Nicodemus, who took advantage of Matthew's interruptions to dip his nose into his pant mug, "old Noddy had looked about the parish for a likely hiding place, and he found one in the churchyard. How he found it is more than anybody knows." "I know," said Benjamin Tripp. "He was led to it."

"Neighbor Tripp," said Nicodemus, "means that the evil one pointed it out to him."

"Cert'ly," said Benjamin. "Well, maybe he did. However, old Noddy must have been spying round the churchyard and he found a hole behind a bed of nettles—the place was kept in poor order then, being considerably before my time—and he discovered that that hole led to an old vault under the chancel. Now, he reckoned, being a sharp hand at thinking that nobody would look for money in a vault, even if they knew the vault was there."

"Which in this case they didn't," said Matthew. "And so he carried his money there—golden pounds and silver crowns."

"All tied up in little bags," said Benjamin Tripp, "same as farmers use to carry their samples of grain in to market."

"And he piled 'em up on top of old Squire Topham's coffin, and no doubt thought they were as safe as if they'd been in the Bank of England."

"Safer—much safer," murmured Matthew.

"Well," resumed Nicodemus, "and so they were. But one night when old Noddy had crept into the vault to look at 'em or happen to add to his store, the earth and the stones fell in, and he was buried alive."

"A judgment," said Matthew. "He must have heard the stones about to fall, though," continued Nicodemus, "for they found him in this way. Nobody could make out what had got him, but one day old Mr. Hoppe was poking about that bed of nettles and saw a human hand sticking out of the rubbish against the chancel wall. So they dug and delved, and there was old Noddy and his gold on the squire's coffin. And I think that's all, though, of course, as parson says, there's a moral in the story."

"Ah, indeed," said Matthew, "and a very improving one, for he truly carried his gold to the very gates of death, as the saying goes, but not a penny beyond 'em!"

What Cats Think of Men.

The cat was a solitary roamer whose companions were the trees of his native forests. It found a home in the hollow trunks and safety among the branches. How do we know that the cat's ancestors were dwellers in the forests? Because every kitten takes to a tree as readily as a duck to water; also because nearly all forest dwellers are mottled in color, so that they may not be conspicuous among the light and shadow beneath the trees. While I was considering what was the probable view held by cats about human beings it was suggested by one ingenious friend that probably they regard man as a kind of locomotive, very pleasant to rub against, the lower limbs of which afford a pleasant seat and from whose upper branches occasionally drops tidbits of mutton and other luscious fruits. We may laugh at the theory, but it has quite a respectable string of facts behind it to back it up. If the Kanakas argued from the pig to the horse, why should not the cat pass from the familiar tree to the unfamiliar organization called man?

The cat, in spite of the domestic character it has acquired, is in reality the least tame of our animal servants. As far as its duties are concerned, man has taught it practically nothing.—North American Review.

Rivers That Flow Backward.

Near Argostoli, a town on one of the Greek islands, four little torrents of sea water, rolling on an average 35 gallons a second, penetrate into the fissures of the cliffs, flow rapidly inland and finally gradually disappear into the crevices of the soil.

Two of these water courses are sufficiently powerful to turn all the part round the wheels of two mills constructed by an enterprising Englishman. This seems at first sight absurd on the face of it, but it is quite easily explained. The hills of the island are of soft, calcareous rock, full of fissures, and suck up water like immense sponges.

In consequence the pools in their rather barren caverns are always lower than the surrounding sea, so, to restore the balance, these little brooks, led by the waves, are always descending inland. The explanation yet natural result of the constant evaporation of the sea water is that gipsy masses of salt crystals are constantly forming in the caves.—Strand Magazine.

THE RELIGION OF ISLAM.

Death the Only Rightful Portion of the Unbeliever in the Faith.

The capitulations of the Ottoman empire are a series of grants of privilege and immunity accorded by various sultans to those Christian nations with which they have desired to maintain commercial or political intercourse. The name is derived from the sections, or capitula into which they are divided.

They were not originally treaties, for no Moslem could, under the sacred law—the shariye sharif—treat with Christian powers as equals. "Mohammedan jurisprudence," says Van Dyck, "recognizes between Mohammedan and non-Mohammedan nations but one category of relations—that of Jihad, or holy war." By the sacred law all ghouls (Christian dogs) are under the ban, yet, although devoted to destruction, they may be spared for a season whenever this is for the advantage of Islam. Now the Mohammedan conquerors were a people neither commercial nor seafaring by instinct. It accordingly became necessary in the middle ages to encourage commerce with the west by concessions to the traders of Christendom, and it was this necessity which produced the capitulations. These were called ahd-namah, or tamassuk—that is, letters of privilege, sworn promises, as from a superior to an inferior.

They were concessions made from a purely selfish motive—that of supplying the new empire with the commercial advantages and industries which the warlike conquerors were themselves incapable of maintaining, and there was neither the effort nor the desire to secure reciprocal privileges for Turks in foreign lands. A Turkish colony under a Christian ruler did not enter the conqueror's mind as even a remote possibility.

With the gradual decay of the Ottoman power and the advance of the Christian nations, the sublime Porte has been compelled to confirm and perpetuate these one-sided grants by formal treaties in spite of the sacred law. In these treaties it is the Christian powers who refuse to enter into relations of reciprocal equality with Turkey. They refuse because of the unchangeable character of Islam. No jot or tittle of the sacred law has been or ever can be abrogated. No such thing exists under Islam as international law or the inherent rights of humanity.

Death is still the only rightful portion of the unbeliever in the faith. There is, outside of the capitulations or of compulsion by external power, no right of legation, no immunity of ambassadors, no right to the protection of life and property, to trial by one's peers, to immunity from arrest without due process of law, to testify in court, to be represented by an advocate, to travel, to carry on business, even to live, for any one not a Moslem. This is no mere theory. It is a fact which has received of late awful proofs in Armenia. The law of nations is absolutely incompatible with Mohammedan principles.—Professor A. D. F. Hamlin in Forum.

Laughter and Wrinkles.

Nine persons out of ten, if asked to give what they consider the cause of wrinkles, would probably reply that it is worry and care. This, however, is by no means always the case, for, as a matter of fact, many of them come from laughing. There is, after all, an art in laughter, and to know how to laugh is really quite as important as to know when to do so. If you laugh with the sides of your face, the skin will work loose in time, and wrinkles will form in exact accordance with the kind of laugh you indulge in. The man who always wears a smirk will have a series of semicircular wrinkles covering his cheeks. A gambler who is accustomed to suppress his feelings generally has a deep line running from each side of his nose to the upper corner of his mouth, which in time extends to the chin, forming the shape of a half moon. An endeavorous person is usually marked with two wrinkles, one on the jaw and the other under the eye, meeting at right angles at the cheek bones. The student's wrinkles form on the brow, while those of the schemer come round his eyes and resemble the spokes of a wheel.—New York Ledger.

A Burst of Generosity.

"You say that you want money to buy food for a hungry man whose face you never saw up to this time?"

"Yes, sir," replied moandering Mike.

"Where is he?"

"He's standing right here," was the hesitating reply. "I'm him."—Washington Star.

Getting Out of Danger.

"Well, well, it is said to see pedes-trianism waiting into a lost art."

"Lost art? Not much! Since the advent of wheels and trolley cars the human race is twice as nimble as it used to be."—Detroit Free Press.

THE CARNIVAL

Was a Grand, Unparalleled
Success Throughout.

SPRING STREET BEAUTIFIED

In a Blaze of Glory—The Merchants' Parade—The Bicycle and Foot Races—and Last, the Fireworks—Grand Display.

The Spring street carnival is over. The day and the attendance were favorable and the celebration was a grand unparalleled success in every feature. It was a local affair, by Lima people, for Lima people, and the Lima people were there by the thousands. The people of Spring street collapsed every anticipation in the decorations and illuminations. The street, from one end of the new pavement to the other was a scene of fantastic beauty and glory; by day a mile of flags and bunting, and by night a continuous stream of colored lights. It was a holiday long to be remembered for its many features of grandeur and the absence of any unsuccessful features to mar the pleasure and delight of 10,000 or more participants and witnesses.

THE MERCHANTS' PARADE.

The heavy timbers which blocked the way at Main street were thrown down by contractor Ayers' men soon after noon and at 2 o'clock the first event upon the carnival programme was given. It was the merchants' parade, followed by other citizens in carriages. The committee in charge made an excellent selection when they elected Capt. T. W. Dobbins grand marshal of the day, assisted by a very efficient staff, constituted of Messrs. Geo. Newson, Dr. A. W. Kahle, William Mosser and George Faurot, Jr., he commanded the entire parade with a master hand and there was no monotonous delays or unnecessary breaks in the long line. The afternoon parade started at Main and Spring streets, moved to Jackson avenue on Spring and counter-marched to Main, where ranks were broken. The parade was formed as follows:

Grand marshal T. W. Dobbins and staff, mounted.
Members of the Lima police force, headed by Capt. Bell.
Ten-ton steam, asphalt street roller.
Opera House Band in wagon donated by Hoover Bros.
Mayor Baxter, followed by councilmen and other city officials in carriages.

FIRE DEPARTMENT RUN.

The street was so crowded with people by the time the parade was over that it was almost impossible to clear a way for the exhibition run of the fire departments. The run was made from Collet street to Elizabeth street and was very exciting. Chief Lewis and assistant chief Cowles were in the lead with the chief's wagon, the central department hose wagon came second, the hook and ladder truck third, and last, but not least, the south side department.

THE BICYCLE RACES.

Manager Wheaton, of the Central Union Telephone Company, very kindly contributed telephones for use on the street, one at Elizabeth street and one at Jackson avenue. They were used to a good advantage in starting the mile race which started from Main street. The bicycle races and winners were as follows:

MURDEROUS

Knife Driven Unexpectedly Into

TWO C. & E. SWITCHMEN.

Walter Gordon and George James Both Seriously Wounded by a Barly Tramp
in the C. & E. Yard
Early Last Evening.

Walter Gordon and George James, two well-known railroad men who are employed as switchmen in the C. & E. yards, were all but murdered last night by a burly tramp, who plunged a dangerous knife into their bodies and then escaped before the police could be notified. The wounds sustained by the two switchmen, while not considered dangerous at the present time are serious enough that the victims will be confined to their beds for a week or two and possibly longer, and their escape from receiving a fatal wound was miraculous.

Gordon is a young married man who lives at 657 1/2 south Main street and has been a resident of this city since childhood, while James is unmarried, came here a couple of years ago from Huntington, Ind., and two more peaceable and industrious citizens could not be found. Last night they were working under the instructions of night yardmaster Fred Rowlands. One of the local freights that came in early in the evening had been divided into two sections and placed upon two separate sidetracks. The night crew had just finished switching out the cars in one of the sections and night yardmaster Rowlands had proceeded to mark the other section, leaving Gordon and James near the Wapakoneta road crossing with instructions to follow him with the engine.

While waiting for the engine to come up, the switchmen noticed two strangers along the tracks. One was a large, heavy man; the other seemed to be a mere boy. The big fellow, who seemed to be slightly intoxicated, was abusing and threatening the young lad in a shameful manner, and James and Gordon interposed in the boy's behalf. The burly tramp resented their interruption of his imposition and suddenly, without an instant's warning, he drew and with an oath struck and slashed at the two switchmen with the weapon and then darted away in the darkness. He had made one lunge at each of the two men and both were effective. Gordon felt the keen blade of the weapon penetrate his side and scrape over his ribs as the stranger ripped it across his body and sprang toward James. The blow sent him staggering against the side of a railway car with a groan of pain and agony. The second lunge sent the knife into James' side and back below the shoulder blade, but James, who at this instant saw his friend and fellow-workman staggering from the blow he had received, did not realize that he was also wounded and started in pursuit of the murderous assailant but soon became weakened from the pain and loss of blood occasioned by his own wound and was compelled to give up the chase.

The engineer on the switch engine was signalled as the locomotive came up and the wounded men were taken aboard and removed to the C. & E. passenger depot. An effort was made to summon the police upon the scene immediately but almost the entire force being in attendance at the carnival, it was nearly an hour before anything was accomplished. Grosjean's ambulance was called and James was removed to his room in the Grumline block on south Main

A LIMA GIRL

Leaves Home and Goes to Sidney to Conceal Her Shame.Feared Her Stepmother's Anger—Was Sent Here and Taken to the County
Infirmary.

The Sidney weekly Journal says: "Monday morning a young girl named Lizzie James, of Lima, who is in a delicate condition, came to Sidney and asked to be sent to the infirmary. Her reason for leaving home was fear of her stepmother's anger. She was taken to the Sidney House, and the infirmary directors of Allen county notified, but they have not yet come for her."

Infirmary director E. F. Davis, received a notice from Sidney of the girl's application for a place of refuge and yesterday he procured a warrant for her removal to the Allen county infirmary, to which place she was taken this morning. Both of her parents are residents of this city, but her mother and father are divorced and the former has been married to another man.

SAD NEWS

Received Announcing the Death of Thomas Mulcahy.

NO PARTICULARS KNOWN.

He Was at Mineral Beach, Indiana, Receiving Treatment. A Popular Conductor on the P. F. W. & C.—Inquest Held This Morning.

Thomas Mulcahy was found dead this morning at Mineral Beach, Indiana. This was the sad news received this morning by Mrs. Thomas Mulcahy, of east Wayne street. No further information has been received and it is not known from what nor when he died.

Mr. Mulcahy last Saturday received a leave of absence for three weeks, and last Monday he and Mrs. Mulcahy left for Mineral Beach, near Warsaw, Indiana. Last Wednesday Mrs. Mulcahy came home on account of the illness of her mother. She intended to return to her husband the first of next week and together they were going on to Chicago. Mr. Mulcahy, for the past year, has been suffering with what he believed to be heart trouble. He was at a Mineral Beach sanitarium receiving treatment and was going to take a three or four weeks rest in hopes that his health might be improved. From outward appearances one would not think that he suffered from any ill health. Mr. Mulcahy was well known and was one of the most popular railroad men in this city. He was the conductor on the west local and had been running this train for the past six years. For eighteen years or more he has been railroad-ing and ever since 1888 has been running on P. F. W. & C. trains. Previous to taking the local he was a conductor on a through freight. He was thoroughly reliable and one of the most trusted men in the service of this division of the P. F. W. & C.

He was 38 years of age and leaves a wife and two small boys to mourn their loss.

The news this morning was sudden and unexpected and caused great sorrow, not only to his wife, but to his many friends.

An inquest was held over his body at Mineral Beach this morning. Mrs. Mulcahy left for that place this afternoon, on No. 9 of the P. F. W. & C., and will return with her husband's remains to-morrow morning. The funeral has not yet been announced.

THREE PRISONERS

Indicted by the Grand Jury and Enter a Plea of Guilty.

COURT SHOWS LENIENCY

To Bert Myers, the Bicycle Thief—Sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory—Bertha Johnson's Attorney Asks for Leniency.

Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock the special grand jury that had been impaneled retired to the jury room to consider the criminal charges against certain prisoners who had signified their intention of pleading guilty to the charges under which they had been bound over to the common pleas court.

It required only a short time for the fifteen jurymen to decide upon the charges against three prisoners. At 5 o'clock their work was done and they were dismissed from further duty.

This morning, at 9 o'clock, judge Richtie requested the sheriff to bring the prisoners before the court for arraignment.

Bert Myers and Bert Douglass, both Lima citizens, were first to be brought into the court room. Myers was arraigned and the clerk was ordered to read the indictment, but Copeland & Rogers, the prisoners' attorneys, said that they had read the indictment and would waive its reading. Myers is the young man who, about five weeks ago, stole a bicycle, the property of Harry Anders, which was left standing in front of the Y. M. C. A. building. He pleaded guilty to the charge, and the judge was more lenient in sentencing him than he generally is with bicycle thieves. Judge Richtie said that, as far as he had been able to ascertain, this was Myers' first offense of such a serious nature. The prisoner, however, had shown a tendency to pilfer little things, which practice had led him to greater deeds.

The prisoner had not been born a thief and at that profession he would be an utter failure. If he continued the practice he would spend the greater part of his life behind prison bars. The court did not desire to make the sentence heavy but wished to give him a sentence that would serve as a reformation to him. He wished to deal leniently in hopes that he might reform and be a better man. The judge advised him when he had been liberated to settle down to work and be a man. The prisoner was sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory, no length of time being given, the term of confinement being dependent upon his good behavior and the action of the reformatory board of control.

The judge stated, however, that should he be privileged to place the term of sentence that it would be one year.

FOR STONING A TRAIN.

Bert Douglass was next arraigned for stoning a C. & E. D. train Douglass, who is a colored man, entered a plea of guilty. The judge stated he would not sentence the prisoner at present, but would defer it until next week.

BERTHA JOHNSON.

Bertha Johnson, the colored woman who was found guilty on a charge of shooting with intent to kill, was next arraigned and entered a plea of guilty. This woman is the one who attempted to shoot her husband on High street near the rear door of the Club saloon. She is a desperate character, and while confined in the jail has given the sheriff much trouble. Twice she made desperate efforts to escape but was captured each time.

Messrs. Copeland and Rogers and Mr. Williams, of Cleveland, were her attorneys. Mr. Williams spoke in behalf of the prisoner and begged for leniency, saying the shooting had been done under great provocation. He painted the life of the prisoner as one somewhat exemplary. He was probably not as thoroughly acquainted with the life and character of the prisoner as are many persons in the city.

Judge Richtie said that he had not thoroughly investigated the circumstances surrounding the case, and as he never sentenced a prisoner without a full investigation he would postpone this sentence also until next week. The prisoners were then ordered remanded to jail.

THREE YEARS

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Bertha Johnson was taken before judge Richtie and sentenced to three years in the Ohio penitentiary. This sentence was a surprise to the prisoner, who appeared greatly affected when it was pronounced.

MANY PARTIES, PICNICS

And Other Social Functions Entertain
the People of Our City During the Last Week of July—A Busy
Social Period.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. John Roby gave a delightful porch party to thirty young people in honor of their guests, Miss Currey, of Delaware, Miss Kirby, of Upper Sandusky and Miss Cain, of Toledo. After the carnival was over all entered into a spirited contest of finding out the "True saying," which was the key to each of the numerous drawings fastened on the wall. Prize awarded were carnations, for brightest girl, and cigars were given to the lucky man. Cooling ices and dainty cakes were enjoyed during the evening. The fortunate young people attending this party were Misses Helen Coon, Margaret and Helen Ellis, Inez Lowe, Nannie Francis, Grace Bryan, Blanche Numan, Eda Ballard, Carrie Truesdale, Louise and Ollie Grafton, and Messrs Dildine, Creps, Van Note, Holland, Sargent, McIndoe, Miller, Johnston, Jones, Fred Thomas, MacDonald, Davis, Strickler and Mr. Burkett, of Delphos.

Mrs. Metzgar is expecting her daughter, Mrs. Patterson, who has been living in France for several years, to reach Lima next week. She will remain with her mother and sister for the month of August, returning to France in the early autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lockhart, of west Spring street, extended their cordial hospitality to a party of friends from the south side yesterday.

Miss Gwen Jones, of west North street, entertained friends at tea this evening in compliment to Miss Belden and Miss Crawford, who are visiting the Misses Rumble.

A score of old neighbors enjoying a picnic supper yesterday were Mrs. J. B. Townsend and family, Mrs. Rumble and family, Judge Mackenzie and daughters, Mr. Will Mackenzie, Miss Belle Hughes and Messrs. Kent and Paul Hughes. The guests from out of town were: Miss Belden, of Hamilton; Miss Crawford, of Cincinnati, and Miss Marion Aves, of Newark. Supper was enjoyed in an informal way upon the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Butler's home.

The Bay View Club gave a charming party last evening at the home of Mrs. Hugh Boone, honoring Mrs. E. B. Hathaway, one of their members, whom they are reluctant to lose. Conversation was enlivened with delicious refreshments. A very pretty book with the suggestive title of "Friends" was given Mrs. Hathaway to show the esteem they feel for her as a member of the club.

Misses Margaret and Mildred Rumble were the hostesses who looked after every one of this party of tourists who left for Balnebridge, in southern Ohio, on Wednesday morning, returning Thursday evening.

Miss Isabel Mackenzie, Miss Gwen Jones, Miss Belden, Miss Crawford, Miss Belle Hughes, and Messrs Paul Hughes and Harry Rumble.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hathaway soon leave for Tecumseh, their new home. They have made many friends here, who are sorry to see them depart.
